Narberth Club Host to County Federation

Mrs. R. J. Hamilton Backed For President of State Federation.

MRS. ROSS PRESIDES

The Narberth Club was the hostess club for the fall meeting of the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs on Thursday, October 23. The meetings were held in the beautiful auditorium of the Narberth Methodist Episcopal Church, just recently dedicated. Mrs. Abram Bunn Ross, a former president of the Narberth Club and now County Federation president, presided.

Mrs. W. Russell Green, president of the Narberth Community Club, made the address of welcome and thanked the church for its kind hospitality. The morning program consisted of a talk by Mrs. A. H. Foster, on "High Lights of the State Convention at Scranton;" the reading of her own poems by Miss Jean Batchelor, Narberth woman, who is achieving an enviable place in the literary world, and an address, "The American Flag and Its Forerunners."

The guests of honor were Mrs. Richard Hamilton, of Ardmore, Chairman of the Southeastern District of the Federation; Mrs. Charles Purnell, President of the Philadelphia League of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Edgar Marburg, publicity chairman for the southeastern district.

Mrs. Hamilton told about the coming meeting of the Southeastern district to be held at Doylestown on November 6. Mrs. Purnell spoke about the "Buy Now" plan, saying that if

'Mulieres' to Hold Meeting on Monday

The regular November meeting of the "Mulieres," recently organized auxiliary of the Narberth Fire Company, will be held on Monday at Elm Hall at 2:15 sharp. All women in the fire district are urged to be present to hear presentation of definite plans for the year.

At the October meeting the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Eberhardt Mueller; first vice president, Mrs. Thaddeus L. Bolton; second vice president, Mrs. A. J. Bawden; secretary, Mrs. Fred A. Egmore; treasurer, Mrs. E. H. Cockrill.

Committee chairmen were appointed as follows: Publicity, Mrs. C. H. Shaw; membership, Mrs. William M. Sibley; entertainment, Mrs. H. S. Hipwell and Mrs. Arthur Staples; decorating, Mrs. J. W. Joyce; purchasing, Mrs. Lloyd Edgerton; supper, Miss Kurzenknabe and Mrs. E. S. Haws; house, William J. Loughlin; by-laws, Mrs. C. W. Bates and Mrs. E. H. Cockrill; hostesses, Mrs. Charles Viguers and Mrs. J. E. Burrell.

How Well Can You Spell? Answered at Club Contest

Renaissance, cantaloupe, dyspepsia, erysipelas and fricassee were the words that stumped all but two of the final participants in a spelling contest held by the Bala-Cynwyd Neighborhood Club Tuesday night in the Cynwyd Fire Hall.

Township Treasurer Peter C. Hess spelled "remittance" as "refund," and someone upset several contestants in order with "dellible," until it was learned it could be spelled with one "l." A high school principal was lost on "exhilarate," and one of the final two contestants spelled "squeezedous" correctly even though it was not in the dictionary.

Dr. H. H. Lott was referee or umpire. The winners were Lloyd A. Unger, attorney, and Walter W. Faries, Public Ledger proofreader. Both received dictionaries as prizes.

Radnor-Lower Merion to Use Villanova Stadium

The Radnor-Lower Merion football game will be played at the Villanova College Stadium this year. This move has been contemplated for some time, but Lower Merion was not willing to make the step last year. Radnor High School deserves credit for instituting this move and the news will be welcome to all the followers of the two schools. Whether this will be continued next year is undecided, but popular opinion will probably urge a continuance. Radnor does not have the facilities to accommodate a good crowd at their field, and while Lower Merion's stands are larger, they are still insufficient for the crowd wishing to attend. The Villanova Stadium has a capacity of about 12,000.

How to Mark Ballot to Vote Split Ticket

In view of the fact that many split ballots are anticipated on Tuesday by election authorities the warning has been sounded that ballots carrying a cross in two party squares will be declared void.

A Republican who wishes to vote the straight ticket with the exception of one office may do so by marking an X in the Republican party square and another X opposite the name of the candidate he wishes to support in the second column of the ballot.

Thus an X in the Republican square in the first column and an X opposite the name of John M. Hemphill as Liberal or Democrat would be a vote for all Republican candidates with the exception of Pinchot and a vote for Hemphill. A Democrat, likewise wishing to vote his straight ticket but supporting Pinchot for Governor, would check the Democratic party square and also the name of Pinchot in the second column.

This practice has been recognized by the Courts for the past ten years coming under the "Intent of the voters' act."

Hemphill Victory Predicted in Lower Merion and Narberth on Eve of Election

Lower Merion Vanquishes Lansdowne High, 24-0

Lower Merion continued its march toward another suburban championship in football when they defeated Lansdowne High last Saturday by a 24-to-0 score. The winning points were scored by the Main Liners in three of the four periods and each touchdown was carried over by a different back. Perhaps John Pennypacker's long run of 95 yards was the most spectacular, and most of the credit for his feat was due to Bob Taylor's pretty interference. Bob outran "Bee" Rust, who was speeding after the Lower Merion captain and overtook him on Lansdowne's thirty-yard line. He hurled himself in front of the Lansdowne back and brought him down as he was just about to tackle the Maroon captain. It was a beautiful play from start to finish.

Lower Merion did not look particularly impressive in this victory, but they were playing under wraps most of the game. The team will have to work much more smoothly to win against Abington tomorrow.

St. Margaret's Guild Organized, Officers Chosen

St. Margaret's Guild was organized this week at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Pierre Laird, Avon Road, Narberth. The officers are Mrs. C. J. Goodyear, president; Mrs. F. X. Purcell, vice president; Mrs. Mark E. Morgan, secretary; Mrs. J. J. Cabrey, treasurer, and Mrs. John M. Townsend, chairman of hostesses. Meetings of the Guild will be held the first Tuesdays of each month at 8:30 P. M. in the basement of St. Margaret's Church.

The Guild will give a card party in the library of St. Margaret's School on Monday at 2 P. M. As this is the first party held under the auspices of the Guild, it is hoped to have a large attendance.

Plans are being made for a rummage sale to be held on November 14 and 15 at 105 North Narberth Avenue, Mrs. William J. Butler is the chairman. Anyone wishing to contribute articles for the sale is requested to call Merion 600.

Annual Gavel Day

Tuesday morning at nine-thirty the Junior High School will hold its annual Gavel Day when all the new officers of the student body will be sworn into office. This ceremony is unique and worth seeing from many standpoints. The parents and friends of the students are invited to attend.

To Give Concert

The Lyric Trio will appear in a concert at the Penn Athletic Club on Tuesday evening, November 4. In the trio are Ernestine Bacon, soprano; Florence Haenley, violinist, and Dorothy Power, harpist.

To Speak at C. E. Meeting

Wade Smith, evangelist, who will conduct special services next week at the Narberth Presbyterian Church, will be the speaker at the Christian Endeavor Society on Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

With the election only four days away, indications point to a Hemphill victory in Lower Merion and Narberth with the State-wide results still very much in doubt. Predictions have been made that Hemphill would carry the Main Line by a two-to-one vote.

Local political leaders, unlike those of Philadelphia, have made no move to break away from the straight Republican ticket although their attitude toward Mr. Pinchot might be described as lukewarm. At a meeting of the County Republican Committee at Norristown on Tuesday, attended by over 500, including county leader Charles Johnson and Mr. Pinchot, support of the straight ticket was urged.

The political situation locally as well as throughout the State has been very confused. "This is an election where the organization is not telling

WOMEN PLEDGE SUPPORT

Mrs. Gifford Pinchot was the scheduled speaker at a meeting yesterday (Thursday) afternoon in Elm Hall, Narberth. Sponsored by a committee of Republican women in the borough, the meeting included presentation of motion pictures of the South Seas, filmed by the gubernatorial candidate and his party on their cruise last year.

Assurances of many votes for Mr. Pinchot were given by women who attended the meeting. They declared that the local petition for his nomination, which was circulated before the primary, bore nearly 300 signatures, including names of educators, women's club workers, professional men, church workers and ministers, business men, bankers and officials of patriotic orders.

Strong efforts are being made by the Pinchot supporters in the borough to round up a large vote next Tuesday.

Excerpts from Mrs. Pinchot's prepared speech follow:

"... There must be regulation of utilities. So Mr. Pinchot plans to set up a 'Fair Rate Board' that shall be elected by the people—sectionally—and to this board will be given the authority the Public Service Commission has misused—the right to regulate rates.

"Not only will the Fair Rate Board have the power to prevent new rate raises that are unjust, but they will also have the right to review rates at present in operation. If these are shown to be unjust they will have the right to reduce them. . . .

the voters what to do," one of the local leaders said yesterday. "Frankly, we all are being told what to do by the voters. Officially the organization is backing the Republican ticket as such. In actual practice, the choice of Pinchot or Hemphill is being left to the individual."

From this and other similar statements, it is evident that Mr. Pinchot, while not facing open hostility in Lower Merion, can count on little aid and succor from the local workers. In many cases individual Republicans are frankly out for the Liberal ticket, and are prophesying an overwhelming number of split ballots.

It has been pointed out by those interested in getting out the vote that people who are not registered may vote by affidavit providing they have lived in their election district for at least sixty days and have paid either a State or County Tax within two years. The affidavit is taken before the Judge of Election and is a matter of only a minute or two.

Residents of the Main Line, prominent in the business and industrial life of Philadelphia, have added to the turmoil of the campaign. The resignation of W. W. Atterbury, of Radnor, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, from the Republican National Committee, and the avowal of his support of Mr. Hemphill was the forerunner of a landslide of defections from the Republican ranks.

Samuel M. Vauclain, of Villanova, in some side remarks at a recent meeting of the Rosemont Civic Association predicted that Mr. Hemphill would be the next Governor.

The formation of an executive committee, pledged to the active support of Mr. Hemphill's candidacy, was announced last week by Howard R. Watt, campaign chairman of the Liberal Party in Montgomery County. It includes the following Main Line and Bala-Cynwyd residents: William J. Bieswanger, Ardmore; F. H. Bohlen, Bryn Mawr; Marechel Brown, Bryn Mawr; J. J. Cabrey, Narberth; Joseph Carson, Bryn Mawr; Percy H. Clark, Cynwyd; Walter Clothier, Wynnewood; Howard H. Ellison, Villanova; Raymond C. Eyler, Ardmore; Charles Fanslow, Ardmore; William Godfrey, Ardmore; Forde F. Hansell, Haverford; Dr. S. Hamill Horne, Bryn Mawr; W. W. Hepburn, Villanova; A. J. King, Ardmore;

Stacey B. Lloyd, Edward J. Lyons, Effingham B. Morris, Ardmore; C. E. Morris, Haverford; George Munson, Merion; J. Joseph McHugh, Bala; George Packard, Villanova; Edward C. Page, Bryn Mawr; Elmer H. Rodenbaugh, Ardmore; R. E. Roberts, Bryn Mawr; George V. Smith, Ardmore; Frank A. Schrepfer, Narberth; Walter Thayer, Overbrook; James D. Winsor, Jr., and F. King Wainright, Ardmore.

Auxiliary to Meet

The Women's Auxiliary of the Narberth Presbyterian Church will meet on Thursday, November 6. The meeting will be from 9:30 to 2. Mite boxes will be collected at the time as there is an urgent call for the contents, which will be given to the Main Line Federation of Churches. Luncheon will be served at 12:30.

Haverford College's victory was a welcome bit of news to the Main Line followers of the Scarlet.

Gubernatorial Candidates and Issues at Stake on Tuesday

JOHN M. HEMPHILL

John Mickle Hemphill, Democratic and Liberal candidate for Governor, was born in West Chester September 6, 1891. He is a descendant of Alexander Hemphill, who settled in Chester County in 1704. Members of the family have occupied the positions of Judge, District Attorney, Congressman and members of the bar of Chester County continuously since 1790.

After graduating from West Chester High School, Hemphill attended Haverford School. He was later graduated from the college and law school of the University of Pennsylvania.

During the World War he served with distinction in the 47th U. S. Infantry, rising from a private to the rank of captain.

Mr. Hemphill is a member of the Chester County bar and also a member of the law firm of Hemphill and Brewster at 1516 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

He married a daughter of the eminent surgeon, the late Dr. Joseph Price, and is a brother-in-law of Joseph Hergesheimer, the novelist. The Hemphills have three children and live at Biddle and Matlack Streets, West Chester.

"When Mr. Pinchot first began to speak about the regulation of electric monopolies, people did not know what he meant. Now it has become one of the live political issues of the day and one bound to become more and more important.

"In the 1925 session of the Legislature, Mr. Pinchot submitted a series of measures called the 'Giant Power Bills' to regulate the electric power monopoly. He was under no illusions as to the difficulty of getting these through. They failed. It did not disturb him, because he knew that legislation of this kind can be passed only when there is an informed and interested public opinion to offset the enormous political power of the companies involved. All his life Mr. Pinchot has known what it means to pass legislation in the interests of the people in opposition to the big special interests.

What They Stand For

Hemphill Advocates—

John M. Hemphill favors the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, the Volstead act and the Snyder-Armstrong law. He believes in putting an end to the bootleg traffic, with its consequent crimes and promotion of disregard of law. He is an out-and-out enemy of prohibition as a device that has failed after a ten-year period.

Hemphill opposes the view of the rival candidate in the matter of public utilities. His appeal is to business men who see in him a less menacing Governor in matters relating to utility and other franchises. Hemphill defends the Public Service Commission.

Hemphill stands for the modernization of the Workmen's Compensation act. He promises to work for an amendment to provide coverage for occupational diseases, for injury to children under working age and for certain accidents that are now uncompensatable.

Hemphill pledges the Democratic party to take favorable action on the old age pension question.

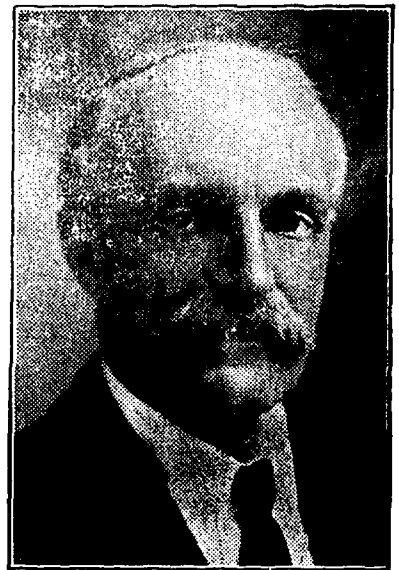

Pinchot Advocates—

Gifford Pinchot is opposed to any modification of the Eighteenth amendment, Volstead act, or Snyder-Armstrong law. He stands forth as a supporter of the contentions of the Anti-Saloon League. A main contention is that a weakening now on the Volstead law would undo the prohibition work of the last ten years.

Pinchot advocates more drastic regulation of public utilities. He promises lower gas, power, water and transportation rates. His reform program of industrial and utility regulations involves changes in the personnel of the Public Service Commission. He charges that this commission has served the corporations at the expense of the public.

Pinchot added to his platform a plank exploiting the need of Republican regularity as a future asset in all matters of government. The defection of Vare, Hall and forty-seven of the forty-eight Philadelphia ward leaders, as well as W. W. Atterbury's resignation as Republican National Committeeman, and other bolts gave occasion for this appeal.

Pinchot sponsors old age pensions.

GIFFORD PINCHOT

Gifford Pinchot, Republican candidate for Governor, was born in Simsbury, Connecticut, August 11, 1865. He was graduated from Yale in 1889 and studied forestry abroad in France, Germany, Switzerland and Austria.

Returning to this country he began the first systematic forestry work in the United States at Biltmore, North Carolina, in 1892. He was appointed a member of the National Forestry Commission in 1896. He served as a forester and later as chief of the Forestry division in the U. S. Department of Agriculture from 1898 to 1910.

A member of numerous commissions on forestry and conservation, Mr. Pinchot became commissioner of forestry in Pennsylvania in 1920. Three years later he was elected Governor of the State, serving until 1927.

Mr. Pinchot was a member of the U. S. Food Administration during 1917 and 1918, and negotiated settlement of the anthracite coal strike in 1923.

His honorary degrees include an A. M. from Yale in 1901, from Princeton in 1904, McGill in 1909. He was married in 1914 to Cornelia Elizabeth Bryce. They have one son, Gifford Bryce Pinchot.

Main Line Republican Women Hear Judge Soffel Tell of Russia's Five-Year Plan

"International Relations," an interesting and vital topic, was presented by Judge Sara M. Soffel, of Pittsburgh, in her address to a large audience at the meeting sponsored by the Lower Merion-Narberth Council of Republican Women in the Township Building, Ardmore, on Friday evening.

In her talk Judge Soffel divided the post-war period into two five-year eras. She gave a brief resume of the first five years, when bitterness and hatred ran high in Europe, and one treaty and plan after another were argued until the signing of the Treaty of Versailles. There was great financial instability during this time and much distress. The repudiation of Wilson's plan for a League of Nations by the United States was an outstanding event of this time and all eyes were turned to the United States for its financial support.

Finally, emerging from this period, the world began to see light, and entered upon an era of better understanding and greater financial stability. Emphasis on peace was made at this time and the Kellogg Peace Pact was adopted. Since that time we have had many plans for the reconstruction of Europe and industries and agriculture were developed and the evacuation of Germany by France was the beginning of still another advance.

Upon the adoption by the United States of a tariff measure with higher rates than ever before, other parts of the world were confronted with the

Well-Known Figure Died of Appendicitis Last Friday.

MASS HELD ON TUESDAY

Patrick F. Donahue, known familiarly to practically every resident of Narberth as "Pat," the dean of the station service corps, died at the Presbyterian Hospital on Friday morning of last week at 9 o'clock, a victim of appendicitis.

A Solemn Requiem Mass for his eternal repose was celebrated on Tuesday morning of this week at St. Margaret's Church by Rev. F. X. McGinty, assistant rector, with the Rev. Charles M. Diegel of Ardmore as Deacon, and Rev. Robert F. Hayes, as sub-deacon. Interment was made at St. Denis' Cemetery. He is survived by immediate family of three daughters and three sons.

It was as quite a small lad that Patrick Donahue arrived in this country from the Emerald Isle in 1884, going to school in Philadelphia, and it was about a dozen years later that he came out to Narberth to work for his brother, Joseph F. Donahue, who had succeeded to the station-cab business of John Calhoun, by whom Joseph had previously been employed.

Out here in the nineties it can be surmised that hauling passengers to and from the station was not a highly lucrative enterprise, with its five and ten-cent fares, and Joseph Donahue, who continues to live in Narberth, retains many a memory of the days when the total receipts did not reach a half dollar. Existence, then, had to be drawn from other sources, and a general delivery business was the answer, with a frame stable and storage building on what is now the Cotter corner of Haverford and Forest Avenues. In due course Joseph came to own the entire site, the very same as that on which the building was erected for the Y. M. C. A., who purchased the ground, buildings and business from Mr. Donahue in 1897 for $11,000, lock, stock and barrel.

The "Y" then proceeded to dispose of the station hacks to our old and lamented friend, John Caldwell, who used as his headquarters the barn which still stands at Haverford and Conway Avenues, apparently built beyond the recollection of any of our present residents, and then after awhile the business was transferred to William Rosenberger, from up Perkasié way, who ultimately turned it over to John Walton, the first operator to use motor vehicles in the service.

In all the changes Patrick Donahue continued as first mate, day and night, in soft and sharp winds, plying his way hereabouts with horse or Ford, more than thirty years of a driving routine which could not be stopped if a living was to be made and a family reared.

When Walton decided to make the shore his permanent habitat, Patrick utilized the opportunity to go on his own, and so he was until the time of his death.

Narberth ought not soon to forget Patrick Donahue. He served it well for a very long time. His kind of task was hard, maybe deadly dull, and it was pretty much of a man who could stick to it, year in and year out, to fulfill as best he could the accountabilities which accompanied his station of life. He had real occasion to be proud and grateful in the possession of a good wife, the splendid woman who was Annie Moran, and who died two years ago.

We imagine life was a great deal less for "Pat" since his excellent helpmate was called above.—THE SPECTATOR.

Collingdale's defeat of Media last Friday was a surprise. Bill Hickman's eleven nosed out the Delaware Countians by a 7-to-6 margin.

A Community Asset

Science again makes a step toward the preservation of human life with the perfection of the marvelous "mechanical lung," an apparatus to provide prolonged artificial respiration, one of which will soon be placed in the Bryn Mawr Hospital through the co-operation of the United Gas Improvement Company and the Philadelphia Electric Company.

This respirator, which is being placed in ten Philadelphia and suburban hospitals, is the invention of Dr. Philip Drinker, a son of Philip S. Drinker, of Merion, and a brother of Philip S. Drinker, Jr., also of Merion.

While it is unlikely that many residents of the section will ever have the necessity of testing the value of this apparatus, its worth cannot be questioned if, as William H. Taylor, president of the Philadelphia Electric Company said, it should be the means of saving one human life a year.

The Utility Companies that are providing this safeguard are to be congratulated upon their public-spirited action.

"Buy Now!"

The "Buy Now" campaign, inaugurated this week by the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, and which has been spreading like wildfire throughout the country, has received the hearty endorsement of the Ardmore Chamber of Commerce. "A general buying campaign is the one thing that can induce the return of normal prosperity to the country," said Joseph L. Bowles, Executive Secretary of the Chamber, yesterday.

Main Line merchants are prepared to aid in this movement by making commodities and prices so attractive that it will be worth everyone's while to make purchases now instead of deferring them to a later period.

One of our Main Line residents, Alba B. Johnson, of Rosemont, as president of the State Chamber of Commerce, is engaged in carrying this movement into every business organization in the Commonwealth.

The campaign has received the official sanction and support of Governor Fisher who made a public statement which follows in part:

"If citizens generally will fall into line in supplying their ordinary needs by cash purchases, an enormous volume of credit will be put in circulation and the confidence needful to restore the country to prosperity will be established. We have the goods; we need to use them; we have the money in the banks to pay for them. Let everybody do business and thereby contribute to the general welfare and to the relief of those who are threatened with unemployment and business failure."

GEORGE K. REILLY

Funeral services were held at 2 P. M. Saturday for George K. Reilly, who ended his life on his Gladwyne estate at Black Rock and Conshohocken State Roads, early last Thursday morning.

Mr. Reilly, who was part owner of the Erin Dane Kennels on his estate, was the senior member of a Philadelphia investment banking firm. According to reports he carried over $1,000,000 life insurance.

Mr. Reilly was unmarried.

ANDREW K. VAN DEVENTER

Funeral services were held on Saturday at 2 P. M. at the Ogden Mortuary, Elizabeth, N. J., for Andrew Kinney Van Deventer, husband of Ella H. Van Deventer, who died suddenly at Haverford, on Wednesday. Interment was private.

WILLIAM FOWLER

Services were held on Monday at 2 P. M. for William Fowler, husband of the late Mary A. and the late Agnes R. Fowler, at his residence, 10 Good Shepherd Terrace, Rosemont.

Modern French music of the younger French school will occupy a considerable portion of the program of the Main Line Orchestra, under the leadership of Adolph Vogel, at its first concert of the season to be held in the Ardmore Theatre on Sunday evening, November 23.

The cadenzas of two Debussy waltzes will feature Mrs. Dorothy Johnstone Baseler, harpist, who has recently joined the organization.

Miss Lindberg, a pupil of Miss Florence Leonard, of the Main Line School of Music, will play the piano concerto No. 2 of MacDowell.

Mrs. John B. Thayer, president of the Association, will play several numbers on the Theremin.

The Redwood String Quartet of the Main Line Orchestra Association under the direction of Dr. W. F. G. Swann, associate conductor of the orchestra, is rehearsing an all-Schumann program to be heard in private recitals during the winter which will be presented to the subscribers of the Main Line Orchestra Association later in the season in the Ardmore Theatre.

John McCormack Coming To Narberth Theatre on Third Anniversary Program

"The Big House," thrilling drama of penitentiary life and of a jailbreak, is the Narberth Theatre's feature this Friday and Saturday. The cast includes Robert Montgomery, Chester Morris, Wallace Beery, Leila Hyams and Lewis Stone. As an added attraction, another of Knute Rockne's football "talkies" is scheduled; it is called "The Last Yard."

Commencing Monday of next week, the borough theatre will celebrate its third anniversary. Its program of fine shows for November includes John Barrymore in "Moby Dick"; George O'Brien in "Last of the Duanes"; Walter Huston in "The Bad Man"; Joe E. Brown in "Maybe It's Love"; Ann Harding in "Girl of the Golden West," and Jack Oakie in "Sap from Syracuse" and "Let's Go Native."

Of especial interest is the feature next Monday and Tuesday: John McCormack, celebrated Irish tenor, in "Song O' My Heart," a beautifully recorded drama of Ireland in the course of which many popular ballads are sung.

Next Wednesday's and Thursday's feature is the French comedy, "The Matrimonial Bed," in which Lilyan Tashman is the star. The plot concerns the experiences of a French gentleman about town who meets with an accident and loses his memory, eventually awaking with more than his share of wives, families and affairs.

Jack London's great tale, "The Sea Wolf," is coming to Narberth next week-end in "talkie-movie" form, and with Milton Sills in his greatest and last role as the sea-faring star.

Good Comedy and Drama Showing At the Egyptian

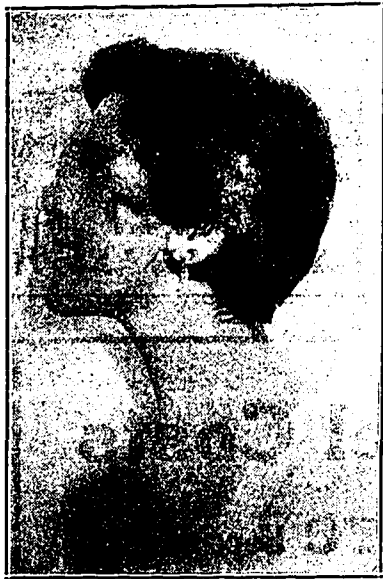

Funny, freckled Jack Oakie has a pathetic characterization as "The Sap from Syracuse" in the Egyptian Theatre's feature film this week-end. The comedian is well supported by Ginger Rogers in a thrilling and diverting tale of love, construction engineering, shipboard and the Balkans.

The dean of English actors, Cyril Maude, appears in the title role of the screen reproduction of "Grumpy" next Monday and Tuesday at the Egyptian. The play has been played by Mr. Maude 1300 times on the stage in all English-speaking countries of the world, since 1913, and the "talkie" is becoming equally popular. "Grumpy" is a comedy-thriller, to be enjoyed alike by old and young.

"Lawful Larceny," the Egyptian's film for next Wednesday and Thursday, portrays Bebe Daniels as a hurt and indignant wife, who secures a position as secretary to the woman who wrecked her home. She steals her own husband back, exposes the vamp as a cheat, and cleans her of all her wealth.

Coming to Cynwyd's playhouse next week-end is "Sins of the Children"—a saga of family life tracing the career of an old German barber and his wife who, in America, find fortune and disillusionment. The children go their own ways: one, an embezzler, narrowly escapes prison; another, a doctor, becomes supercilious; one daughter marries and the youngest has a serious love affair. The cast includes Robert Montgomery, Elliott Nugent, Leila Hyams and Louis Mann, stage actor.

The Egyptian's scheduled shows for November include: "The Silent Enemy," Ann Harding in "Paris Bound," Jack Oakie in "Let's Go Native," Charles Ruggles and Ginger Rogers in "Queen High" and Moran and Mack in "Anybody's War."

Ultra-Violet Light AidsPenshurst Farm Produce*New Milk With Vitamin D

For the past two years, Penshurst Farm, Narberth, has been experimenting in the production of a new milk in which the Vitamin D content has been greatly increased. A great deal of information on this much-discussed vitamin has been published in the past few years, and among other properties it has been found that Vitamin D aids the system in the absorption of essential minerals. Therefore it has been considered that milk, which contains these minerals, should be the best possible medium for the transmission of Vitamin D. It has also been noted that milk, once it has acquired this vitamin, will transmit its full benefit to the consumer, as milk is one food that is always fresh when used.

In previous attempts to produce milk of this type, two important obstacles have been encountered. One is change of taste and the other is prohibitive cost of production. Both of these problems have been overcome by the process used at Penshurst Farm. This process, involving the irradiation of the cows with artificial ultra-violet light, has been developed by Mr. George E. Bresette, of Philadelphia.

In 1929 milk produced in this manner was tested at the University of Pennsylvania, and by feeding to albino rats was found to have a Vitamin D content many times that of other milk from the same herd. Later, clinical tests conducted with children were successful and more are to be made during the fall and winter for purposes of comparison with standard anti-rachitic agents.

However, the management of Penshurst Farm do not wish this milk to be considered as a medicine, but rather as a tonic, both for adults and children, its effect on the system being identical to that of sunlight. In the absence of summer sunshine, its benefits have been incorporated in a universally-used commodity.

Several Private ResidencesAmong Building Permits

Building permits were granted during the week for the erection of four private dwellings in the township by the building inspector.

A residence will be built for Alexander L. Crawford on the north side of Pennstone Road, east of Swamp Road, Bryn Mawr, by J. H. Reiter, Bryn Mawr builder, at an estimated cost of $32,500.

A single family dwelling will be constructed by P. J. Lawler, of Bala, in the Merion Park development at the northeast corner of Cornell and Harvard Roads. The approximate cost will be $14,000.

Campaign Issues as Joined Between Gifford Pinchot and John M. Hemphill

But 4 days remain until the culmination of the bitterest political fight that Pennsylvania has had for many years. On Tuesday, November 4, the electorate of the State will decide whether Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for Governor, or John Mickle Hemphill, Democratic and Liberal candidate, will occupy the Gubernatorial chair at Harrisburg for the next four years from the first Monday in next January. The only fight is between Pinchot and Hemphill. There is no doubt that the balance of the Republican ticket, headed by James J. Davis for United States Senator, will have an overwhelming majority.

Mr. Pinchot is making his fight as the regularly nominated candidate of the Republican party, which without any possible argument, he is. He defeated Francis Shunk Brown and Thomas W. Phillips at the primaries by a plurality of over 20,000. So much for that.

His opponents in his own party claim that he is not a Republican that he left the party, definitely, in 1914; that his election would give aid and comfort to the Insurgent element in the Republican party which has made life miserable for President Hoover by opposing all of his policies.

The issues in the campaign are many. On some of them the two candidates practically agree, on others they differ radically. Probably the most important one is the stand of Messrs. Pinchot and Hemphill on the Public Service Commission. The former would do away with the commission and substitute therefor what he denominates a Fair Rate Board, elected by the people. Mr. Pinchot claims that the decisions of the present board sometimes have not been favorable to the common people.

Mr. Hemphill sees nothing wrong in the basic law under which the commission was formed, and says that if abuses exist (which he does not charge) they can be remedied by raising the standard of the personnel of the commission.

On this issue the widest divergence of opinion exists. Lifelong Republicans of the caliber of W. W. Atterbury, Samuel M. Vaclain, Effingham B. Morris, Robert K. Cassatt and many other business men say they cannot go along with Mr. Pinchot in his policy of ripping out the Commission.

Another plank in Mr. Pinchot's platform calls for the equalization of taxation. He claims that big corporations do not pay a just share of the taxes. In a form letter sent out to voters of Philadelphia last Thursday, the candidate asserted that the Pennsylvania Railroad did not pay a cent of taxes on their real estate holdings in that city.

(This assertion immediately was denied by Thomas W. Hulme, of St. Davids, vice president of the road, in charge of real estate, who said: "The Pennsylvania Railroad paid the city $1,274,000 in taxes on real estate for the year 1929. Railroads pay taxes on all their real estate outside of rights of way.")

Mr. Hemphill has not gone into this matter in any of his speeches to date.

The candidates are farthest apart on the subject of prohibition. Mr. Hemphill stands squarely for the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, the Volstead act and what he calls the "iniquitous" Snyder-Armstrong State enforcement act. Mr. Pinchot says he is as dry as he ever was, and lets it go at that. He claims that prohibition is only a side issue in the campaign, raised by his enemies to befog the real issues. He has refused to be drawn into a discussion of this subject.

Mr. Pinchot proposes to have the State Highway Department take over 20,000 miles of roads and have them rebuilt, and says it can be done without increasing taxes. Mr. Hemphill denies that this can be done and also opposes the plan on the ground that it would take "home rule" from the townships and further add to the centralization of power at Harrisburg.

Mr. Pinchot bitterly assails what he calls the Philadelphia "Gang," and claims that if his opponent be elected it will mean that that "gang" will be in control at Harrisburg. This Mr. Hemphill denies most emphatically. He says that he has made no deals with Philadelphia Republican leaders; that if he be elected Governor he will be controlled by no one.

There are minor issues, of course, but the real fight is being waged on the "regularity" of the Republican candidate, the attitude of both candidates on the Public Service Commission and public utilities in general and upon the question of prohibition.

Both candidates favor the abolition of the coal and iron police, and both favor honest elections, good roads, good schools, old age pensions and proper care of veterans of our wars.

Pennsylvania has had but two Democratic Governors in over 60 years—Robert E. Pattison, who was first elected in 1882 and again in 1890.

'Pot Luck' Supper Opens Junior Season

Members Hear Mrs. Arthur
Waters Speak on the Stage and Players.

MEET NEXT NOV. 6th

The Junior Community Club of Narberth got off to a flying start on Thursday evening when the first meeting of the season was held in the form of a "pot luck" supper at the club rooms at Elm Hall. The "luck" was good from the standpoint of the many savory dishes brought and served by the members and of the good attendance which presages a successful year.

Mrs. Clifford Goodwin, the president, presided at the meeting which followed supper, and she called upon Mrs. Ellsworth Clark to give her experiences as delegate to the recent convention at Scranton. It was easy to learn from Mrs. Clark's report that every minute of the convention program had been filled with interesting and constructive activities, and it could be seen that the local delegate had absorbed many new and very worth-while ideas for future use. Mrs. Clark highly praised the hospitable reception accorded by the Scranton club members, and was most enthusiastic in her assurances of having had a wonderful three days.

Later in the evening we heard from our guest speaker, Mrs. Arthur Waters, wife of the dramatic critic, and herself closely attached to the theatre and its people. Mrs. Waters talked about the work of the Professional Players in bringing original New York casts to Philadelphia theatregoers, giving short reviews and pre-views of the plays sponsored by this group. It is probable that the Juniors as a whole will pursue some dramatic activities and no better schools of preparation could be suggested than the theatres housing some of the better plays as Mrs. Waters described them. The detailed replies which the speaker was able to make to the eager questioning which followed her talk showed her complete understanding and love for the stage and its players.

The next meeting will be held on November 6 at Elm Hall and all young women interested in joining the club are invited to attend, at 8:30. Membership comprises those from 18 to 28—theoretically—but if you are not within these limits do not stay away, for perhaps something can be arranged.

NARBERTH LIBERAL PARTY COMMITTEE

Mrs. Pinchot Speaks at Narberth Meeting

"When, years ago, he began to talk about the forests, the people of America did not know what it was all about, but the men who were exploiting the forests knew and they were bitterly hostile. In spite of this, Mr. Pinchot kept on, year after year, educating the public and he put this program over. Today, his preservation of the forests of America is accepted without question by everyone. Later, he fought for the conservation of natural resources. That, too, met opposition every step of the way.

"Still later, he became interested in the preservation of the water power sites. These belong to the people. They were being given away to the politically favored few—for nothing and in perpetuity. Mr. Pinchot opposed this—he contended that water power was going to be one of the big sources of power in the future. After years of fighting he succeeded in getting across the Federal Water Power Act. It took something like twelve or fourteen years. He figures that is about the time it takes to get any new and big idea across.

"Today the men who fought him most bitterly on all three of these measures are convinced that he was right. Some years ago we went West, and in three separate instances we met men who had been most bitterly opposed to his forestry and conservation program. They came forward voluntarily and said that they thought the building up of the West was in large measure due to his conservation ideas. Another time the editor of a big newspaper, who had fought the Federal Water Power Act, told him that if there should be any chance of that legislation being repealed, the very interests that had opposed it would come together and raise a fund over night for its defense.

"And so it goes. It may be that before many years the big utility groups will recognize that what Mr. Pinchot is doing is clearly for their interests as well as for the interests of the people. They are blind to their danger today. For they are in danger of an aroused public opinion that will not tolerate their riding roughshod over the interests of all of us. If the utilities do not accept real regulation, just as surely as the sun will rise tomorrow there will be a movement in America for Government ownership and they will lose the control of their own industries. If the Public Utilities defeat the effort to secure proper regulation and allocate to themselves the right to be above the law, then the people will rise up and Government ownership will become a real danger.

"The utility companies want to defeat Mr. Pinchot. They say his scheme of regulation would ruin their business and cut down the dividends on utility stocks in which many of us have invested. That is untrue. They can prosper on a much less rate than they are getting. If the Supreme Court decides that 8% is a fair rate of interest on an investment, certainly it indicates that 500, 1000 and 3000% profit must be based on extortionate rates. Mr. Pinchot stands with the Supreme Court. If he is radical and unsound, then the Supreme Court is radical and unsound. It is not the stockholders who profit by the great amounts made on these investments. How many of us have made 100% on any stock we own? Yet the Federal Trade Commission has shown that the insiders in the Public Utility game are and have been making it. The large share of the profits goes to the little group of manipulators, the financiers who take the profits long before they reach the individual stockholder. A utility man in New York made a statement during the peak of the stock market panic, saying that he had something like $50,000,000 in cash and $45,000,000 in paid-up securities—at a time

problem of marketing goods hitherto consumed here. Other countries, especially Great Britain and Russia, considered the new tariff law and adopted measures to protect the industries of their respective countries. Briand, the French Premier, also considered the plan of forming a United States of Europe. These countries are challenging the United States in the economic field.

Since 1928, Soviet Russia has been engaged in an experiment known as the Five-Year Plan. The object of this plan, which is the precursor of a Fifteen-Year Plan (now in the process of elaboration), is to supply Russian industry and agriculture with a series of definite objectives, controlled and planned by a central planning agency. Every major aspect of economic life is dominated by trusts and the trusts are co-ordinated by the State. The result is to put Russia in a position of being the only nation in the world which is attempting to regulate all of its economic life on a national basis. This is a factor which is destined to have many wide repercussions through the rest of the world. Already it is apparent that every industrial nation of any consequence is faced with the necessity of co-ordinating its business life. World-wide industrial depression and unemployment lends an edge to the situation.

The President's Business Committee in Washington has been engaged in studying the current depression and is mapping its economic future. In Great Britain an Economic Council has been established which, in concert with the Bank of England, is preparing to nationalize British industry. The economists of every country of the world are examining the Five-Year Plan with a view of determining what aspects of it are applicable outside of Russia.

For the Five-Year Plan seems to be working. It has been definitely established by Soviet Russia and it looks as though it were going to be a success.

Judge Soffel pointed out that unemployment was world-wide and not in the United States alone; and would have happened whether a Republican or a Democrat was President and that it was the after effect of the war. Judge Soffel, who is a staunch Hooverite, said that there were two widely separated schools of thought on the political future of Herbert Hoover. One believes that his administration will become increasingly unpopular and that his difficulties will multiply after November; that his personal prestige will diminish and that by 1932 his ineptitude as a personal leader will have been convincingly demonstrated and he will be a one-term President. The other is equally firm in the opinion that, with the final recovery of business, which the most pessimistic concede cannot be delayed over two years, all the criticism of President Hoover will disappear, and before 1932 his wisdom and strength will be made manifest.

Judge Soffel made it clear that the Prohibition question will have to be settled definitely by both parties in the year of 1932; and such a question should be looked upon dispassionately by the members of both parties.

As to the present political situation in Pennsylvania Judge Soffel would when men and women who had invested in his securities were going bankrupt.

"It is the making of such excessive profits by a very few men, at the expense of the great mass of the people who are charged exorbitant rates, that Mr. Pinchot wants to do away with. He wants to regulate profits in accordance with the decisions of the Supreme Court. This program will not depress stocks. It will not prevent any one from making honest profits on his investments. It will insure everyone who pays car fares and bills for electric power and gas, against unfair and discriminating rates."

Pun'kin Face

A round and golden weighty load,
My Daddy brought to our abode,
A dandy pun'kin, cost a lot,
But worth it when a face it's got.
We got a knife and started in
To probe the inside of its skin,
You bet we had a heap of fun,
You ought to see it, now it's done.

We first cut off a slice on top,
To make the cap that gets so hot,
Now then we scooped out all the seeds
And stuff the growing pun'kin needs.
Now all was ready for the face,
This is the most exciting place,
In making Jack o' Lantern eyes,
You'll make them laugh if you are wise.

The nose is easy to cut through,
The mouth is harder, though, to do,
We cut some teeth and made him grin,
This funny, jolly Pumpkin-kin.
A candle lights the whole thing up,
To scare our crazy long-eared pup,
To say WE made it, isn't true,
I just keep watch 'til Daddy's through.

'Mechanical Lung' For Bryn Mawr Hospital

The new Drinker respirator which will soon be added to the equipment of the Bryn Mawr Hospital through the co-operation of the U. G. I. and the Philadelphia Electric Company. This torpedo-shaped apparatus is used in cases of narcotic poisoning, electric shock, gas asphyxiation, etc., where prolonged administration of artificial respiration is essential for successful treatment.

Bryn Mawr Hospital
to Get Respirator

U. G. I. and Philadelphia Electric Gift Will Be Boon to Community.

IS 'MECHANICAL LUNG'

The Bryn Mawr Hospital will be one of the ten hospitals in Philadelphia and the suburbs which will soon be equipped with artificial respirators, according to an announcement by William H. Taylor, president of the Philadelphia Electric Company. This plan is to be carried out through the co-operative efforts of the United Gas Improvement Company, J. E. Zimmerman, president, and the Philadelphia Electric Company.

The respirators being purchased are the same type used in San Francisco and in the treatment of John Field in Philadelphia. It is the invention of Philip Drinker, assistant professor of Industrial Hygiene at the Harvard School of Public Health. Mr. Drinker, a former Philadelphian, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry S. Drinker, of Merion, and a brother of Henry S. Drinker, Jr., a member of the Philadelphia bar. Dr. Drinker is a former president of Lehigh University.

The apparatus, of a torpedo-like appearance, works like a mechanical lung. The patient is placed in the metal box or respirator with his head protruding from one end through a snugly fitting rubber collar. When the respirator is closed, the body is in a relatively airtight container with the head exposed to room air. By means of an electrically driven pump and valve arrangement, changes of air pressure are induced within the respirator. Thus, moderate degrees of accurately measured negative pressure are made to alternate rhythmically with atmospheric pressure. When negative pressure is applied, air at atmospheric pressure enters the respirator through the patient's nose or mouth;

it is drawn into the lungs and the chest expands. When the negative pressure within the respirator returns to normal, the elastic recoil of the chest produces expiration.

"I believe the plan we have formulated," Mr. Taylor announced, "will be a safeguard against recurrence of the recent San Francisco tragedy wherein the life of a young woman was sacrificed because a male patient already occupied the only artificial respirator or 'mechanical lung' possessed by the city.

"We have investigated the respirator," Mr. Taylor said, "and are convinced that not only is it an invention of high merit but that an area so important, industrially and otherwise, as Philadelphia and suburban territory cannot afford to be without the freest access to its facilities. It is, admittedly, a necessary contribution to front-rank preparedness in the treatment of certain forms of accident and disease. Although of rather recent invention, the respirator has already been approved by leading medical authorities and some of the country's foremost safety engineers. It is now being successfully operated in New York City, San Francisco, Chicago, Detroit and several other cities. New York operates fourteen and San Francisco, through a popular appeal carried on by a newspaper, has upwards of ten in prospect.

"The respirator is used largely in cases of narcotic poisoning, electric shock, drowning, gas asphyxiation, post-operation cessation of breathing or kindred cases where prolonged administration of artificial respiration is essential to successful treatment. It is not intended as a substitute for present methods used by Philadelphia Electric and other companies in the treatment of mild gas asphyxiation and electric shock cases which are now cared for at the scene of the accident through the medium of mechanical inhalators and the well-known Schaefer Prone Pressure method of resuscitation.

"I am informed by local hospital authorities that the respirator is a positive answer to a very apparent need, and that an increasingly large number of lives will be spared through its use. If the provisions we have made shall result in the saving of a single human life a year, we will feel amply repaid for the expenditure."

Many Visit Remodeled Offices of Phila. Electric Company; Several Profit Thereby

The recent remodeling and altering of the Ardmore office of the Main Line division, Philadelphia Electric Company, was completed Thursday, October 23. The building was opened Friday, October 24, for inspection by customers and on invitation hundreds of Main Line residents visited the new building.

The first floor of the three-story building is occupied jointly by the Merchandise Sales Department and the Cashier Department. The second floor embraces the offices of departmental heads, the new Business Department and the Customers' Service Department. The Customers' Accounting Section and a large remodeled rest room, attractively furnished for women employees, is on the third floor.

Located on Lancaster Avenue, and running through to Station Avenue at the Pennsylvania Railroad Station, the first floor provides ample opportunity for window display and five modern show windows, attractively arranged to exhibit gas and electric appliances, are included. Walnut furniture is used throughout the first floor. Desks, display counters and tables are appropriately arranged. In the rear, Order Department desks with comfortable chairs provide convenient contact with customers.

At the head of the stairway on the second floor is a waiting lobby adjacent to the Customers' Service Department. This department has been recently created to expedite all customer contacts and it is felt will provide customers a central plant for the transaction of regular routine affairs. The new offices of the new Business Department are located in the newly-leased wing formerly occupied as a general office building.

The third floor of the old building and the remodeled wing of the newly-leased portion has been given over to the Customers' Accounting Section, thus relieving an overcrowded condition in the clerical force of the office which has previously handicapped the work of this section. The large number of women employees necessitates the use of the comfortable room in the rear as a rest and luncheon room. The necessity for such a room has been felt for some time and this innovation will be appreciated by the workers.

Throughout the building particular attention has been paid to proper lighting and the sales floor reflects the latest developments in the use of indirect and reflected light. The complete installation was designed by the Lighting Department of the Philadelphia Electric Company. The offices as a whole provide a maximum of light and air and make an attractive and pleasant location in which to work or transact business. An enlarged telephone system embracing an interdepartmental dial unit is installed in a separate office and will further facilitate service to the customers.

Visitors to the building during the opening were generous in their expressions of praise and delight in the new accommodations and enjoyed the demonstrations in the use and operation of the various appliances. Waiters, salad, sandwiches and ice cream were served to the guests. Door prizes were presented to the holders of lucky number tickets, which were signed upon entering the building and later drawn by Murdock P. Clancy, vice president of the Merion Title and Trust Company of Ardmore.

The first prize offered for attendance on Friday was a quality gas range, equipped with oven heat control and was won by Mrs. Isabel Isinger, Maple Avenue, Paoli, and the first prize offered for attendance Saturday was a Philco radio of the lowboy type, which went to N. F. Gillam, of Villanova.

Children's Aid Society Helps Baby Marie

Marie is a tiny baby, just about two months old and merry and blue-eyed. Her mother and father have worked hard to exist, but illness and unemployment brought them to desperate straits. They could no longer keep their little home going. The tiny daughter, whom they adored, must have sunshine and In despair they turned to the Children's Aid Society of Montgomery County, which is a member of the Philadelphia Welfare Federation.

With the help and advice of one of the staff visitors, the mother was given the necessary medical care and little Marie was placed boarding with kindly foster parents, while her own mother was recovering her health. The father has gotten a position at service and is contributing to the baby's support.

More Power

... to the Home

IF the old saying that a man works from sun to sun, but a woman's work is never done be true, then surely we have need of more power for the home!

A woman starts her day feeling fresh and gay, but her smile dims when she contemplates what the day may hold for her in the way of household routine, especially if it's to be done by WOMAN POWER. For there is always the house to be cleaned

...a never-ending chore, because no matter how clean the house is today, tomorrow it again needs cleaning... then there is the washing to be done and

that's not a white-collar job by any stretch of the imagination... and there are always

three meals

a day to look forward to, which is hardly a thrilling prospect.

More power to the home solves these problems of the hurried housewife.

She

keeps a clean house clean with an electric cleaner and without any of the toil that such a routine would entail without electric service... she has what Arnold Bennett calls "a reckless profusion of clean linen" when an electric washer

and ironer

are on call, and extra house guests cause her no mental anguish when she thinks of the laundry work... and the electric range guarantees her effortless cooking for that daily three-meal marathon, especially if she dislikes being tied down to watch things cook and uses the electric timer to give her this freedom from pan-watching!

Action and Valor

"The Thousand March," by Frederica de Laguna. Little, Brown and Company, $2.00.
REVIEW BY L. L. CHAPPELL

Presumably, the Arabic numerals first came to us as plain servants, all similar in mission, however dissimilar in value. Queer that with the passage of time certain of these prosaic working folk, rising above the rest, have acquired significance beyond their original worth. So, we have now a little group of numerical aristocrats, to whose utilitarian character custom has added a dash of the romantic, the emotional. Seven and three are the mystic numbers. Thirteen is the unlucky number. Twenty-three in American slang once connoted rude dismissal. Readers of the Victorian poets are apt to recall 600 as a tragic number, wreathed in the battle smoke of the year 1854. One thousand is another number belonging to a military episode, the Sicilian campaign of 1860.

Other thousands there have been, but the Thousand is Garibaldi's army, those high-hearted men who, having set sail from Genoa, landed at a Sicilian port on May 11, 1860, and, during the following month, swept across the island, defeating the Neapolitans in a series of struggles which culminated in the fight for Palermo. Because so many of Garibaldi's followers were boys, because the campaign in its motive held the idealism, in its execution, the daring that youth honors, this story of the spring of 1860 seems to belong to young people. For them, it has been retold in a new book, entitled "The Thousand March," by Frederica de Laguna. The young author is a resident of Bryn Mawr and a graduate of Bryn Mawr College of the class of 1927.

In "The Thousand March" Miss de Laguna has recounted the adventures of Teddy Lane, a seventeen-year-old American boy who, with his parents, chanced to be in Italy in the spring of 1860. Teddy's father, leaving his family in northern Italy, went to Palermo, expecting to spend one week. There, perhaps for a trivial expression of sympathy with the Liberals, he was imprisoned by agents of the Bourbon ruler of Naples and Sicily. The troubling news came to Teddy and his mother in Genoa and was soon followed by rumors of Garibaldi's plan for wresting Sicily from the Bourbons. Teddy, desiring to go to his father and to aid Italy in her struggle for liberty and unification, joined Garibaldi's expedition. Among the Thousand, he found boys of his own age and one, Luigi Biffi, several years younger. The lads became devotedly attached to each other as they went forward to adventures, ordeals and responsibilities scarcely compatible with their years. Their happiness in the final victory at Palermo probably surpassed that of the older members of the little army.

It is a story brimming with action and valor. That romantic adventure was a real quality of the campaign, one learns from even so solid an historical work as G. M. Trevelyan's "Garibaldi and the Thousand." The author of the fictive "The Thousand March" was, therefore, wise in adhering very closely to fact. Verisimilitude enhances the value of the book to the young reader and in no wise defrauds him of the excitement which he expects in an historical romance. Among the real characters, grouped about the imaginary Teddy Lane, are Luigi Biffi, the boy of thirteen who fell at Calatafini; Menotti Garibaldi, son of the General; Benedetto and Enrico Carroli, representatives of an aristocratic Lombard family, and Colonel Nino Bixio, the disciplinarian.

The predominant objective interest of the book does not entirely exclude the subjective. With fine understanding the author implies the workings of a boy's mind, the strength and inspiration of the ties that grow between comrades in arms.

Many a house which seems too small needs only Gas Heating to make it spacious

In a gas-heated basement no bins or tools... no dirt or clutter mar otherwise useful space

The Gas-Heating boiler with its good-looking stream-like cabinet harmonizes with any surroundings

AND what could possibly give greater return for the modest sum invested? A home gloriously comfortable the winter through, with you and every member of your family completely free from the old chaining task of fire-tending. A whole, new, livable space in the basement which can actually be devoted to extending the size of the house. Better health for every member of the family, because of an evenly heated home.

Economical!

Another Bryn Mawr Girl Wins Junior High Honor

In one of the closest contests in the history of the Junior High School, Kay Kennedy, of Bryn Mawr, was elected president of the student body last Tuesday in the annual election. Mirdza Specht, Tom Dunlap and Sandy Thomas were in the race and polled heavy scores. After the third voting, Kay polled a majority vote.

This is the second time in the history of the school that a girl has been president and each time the honor has gone to a girl from Bryn Mawr. Susan Abernathy held the office three years ago. Last year Tom Kennedy, brother of Kay, was elected to the same office.

Choral to Meet

The first rehearsal of the Bala-Cynwyd Choral will be held 8 P. M. Monday in the auditorium of the Bala-Cynwyd Woman's Club, Levering Mill Road. Singers in nearby Main Line communities are invited to join this year in rehearsals for the Choral's annual event, which will probably take place about the end of January. Henry M. Hotz will conduct.

Girl Evangelist at Cynwyd

Udine Utley, girl evangelist, will preach 11 A. M. Sunday at the Bala-Cynwyd Methodist Episcopal Church. She is one of the few women who have been ordained ministers in the Methodist Church, and is noted for her revival services—in Ocean Grove, Winona Lake, New York and Philadelphia. Her first sermon was delivered at the age of eleven.

Haverford Girl Scouts Stage Overnight Hike

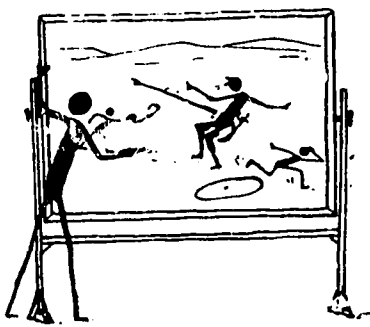

An overnight hike was enjoyed recently by Haverford Girl Scout Troop, No. 120, to their Scout house on the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Griscom Bettle at Gladwyne, the Scouts cooked their supper and listened to their favorite stories by their favorite story teller, Miss Julia Williamson, around a huge camp fire.

Miss Williamson has been captain of the Haverford Troop ever since its organization four years ago, and was "Brown Owl" to the girls long before that, when they were too young to be Scouts and belonged to what is known as a "Brownie Pack," and met at the Haverford Friends' School. Very regrettably they parted with her this season, and she became National Brown Owl, in charge of the Brownie Packs all over the country.

The Captain, Mrs. Henry D. Boothe, Jr., of Ithan, was in charge of the girls, assisted by the new lieutenant, Miss Mueller. The troop meets each Monday at the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church.

Pictorial Evangelist Coming to Narberth

Will Conduct Week of Special Services at Presbyterian Church.

"David and Goliath," Exit the Armor-bearer!

The Rev Wade C. Smith, who is coming this Sunday for a week's evangelistic services at the Narberth Presbyterian Church, has a personality and a message that will appeal to thinking people. Of Southern Presbyterian stock, he is not given to emotionalism, but brings back the old Gospel story in a quiet way that reaches the heart and challenges the soul.

He illustrates his messages by the unique Little Jetts, shown above, which have also been published in book form and go out anew each week to tens of thousands of Sunday school teachers and children through the columns of The Sunday School Times.

At first glance these Jetts may seem rather crude and out of place in a Christian message, but far from being silly or irreverent, they wonderfully enlighten Mr. Smith's messages and often serve to leave an indelible impression upon the minds of those who listen—and see.

The way these Jetts originated is interestingly told in his book, "The Little Jetts Telling Bible Stories," which is dedicated "in sympathy and affection to Little Folks everywhere, who find just being good on Sunday afternoons sometimes monotonous." We learn that they sprang into being one Sunday afternoon when mother was away and daddy had to keep some little folks from missing her too much. He knew that mother had been in the habit of telling them Bible stories on Sunday afternoons, but dared not attempt to duplicate her style, knowing he would be "weighed in the balance and found wanting." (Mother Smith, by the way, will be on hand with her husband in Narberth too.) Thus came the necessity to offer novelty of some kind, and, with fountainpen in hand, he set out upon the rather hazardous experiment of telling illustrated stories. Two things, however, were in his favor—a child's wonderful imagination, which has no difficulty in seeing people in straight marks, and the delight of a child (and, strange to say, grown folks, too) at seeing anything drawn, however crude.

"The venture proved to be an amazing success. Interest grew almost riotous and from that time forward, the quack artist had a regular engagement to 'illustrate' the stories mother told. As the stories grew a little more complicated and a man would have to be drawn sitting down, or fighting, or doing something besides standing straight up, the difficulty seemed almost too great to overcome. Sometimes the Little Jetts preferred to stand up straight, and, when compelled to sit, their legs would seem to get hopelessly tangled or unintelligible."

Well, Mr. Smith has gotten their legs straightened out, and has added quite a lot of frills, and even some color, so he's a "reglar" artist now. And his Jetts have become so increasingly popular that they have traveled through many countries, even to China and India.

While Mr. Smith uses these Jetts to illustrate most of his talks, he uses them only as a means to an end. He has a definitely helpful spiritual mes-not commit herself, but said that Robert Benchley's prophecy about the political parties filled the bill just now. It is as follows:

"During the early years of our political history, the Republican Party was the Democratic Party or, if you choose, the Democratic Party was the Republican Party. This led naturally to a lot of confusion, especially in the Democratic Party getting the Republican Party's mail; so it was decided to call Republicans 'Democrats' and be done with it. The Federalist Party (then located at what is now Broad and Walnut and known as 'The Swedish Nightingale') became, through the process of natural selection and a gradual dropping off of its rudimentary tail, the Republican Party as it is today. This makes, as prophesied earlier in the article, two parties, the Republicans and the Democrats."

Judge Soffel complimented the Council in their good work on training women in politics and told them to keep up their good work for "there was no doubt that women still had much to learn politically and that when women became real factors in the parties, then they would be on an equal basis with the men of their party."

Mrs. H. Tatnall Brown, Jr., president of the Council, presided at the meeting and the committee in charge were Mrs. Morris Shipley, Mrs. Harrie Bell, Mrs. David Patterson, Mrs. Herman Schwartz, Miss Blanche Meeser, Mrs. W. Russell Green, Mrs. H. Wilson Moorhouse, Mrs. Conyers Read, Mrs. Eugene Kuen and Mrs. L. Robinson Murray.

sage that will enrich the lives of Christians and inspire them to more devoted service to their Master; he brings comfort and encouragement to those who are in trouble or perplexity, and has led many to Christ. It is hoped that many in Narberth will similarly be helped by his messages.

Mr. Smith will speak at the various services in the Presbyterian Church and Sunday School and also each week-day evening except Saturday, concluding his meetings in Narberth on the following Sunday. A rousing singing of the old Gospel hymns and special music by a chorus choir will further add to the attractiveness of the services. A cordial invitation is extended to every one to attend

Christian Science Topic

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, November 2. The Golden Text is, "He that covereth his sins shall not prosper; but whoso confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy" (Proverbs 28:13).

Among the citations from the Bible is the following: "The righteousness of the perfect shall direct his way; but the wicked shall fall by his own wickedness" (Proverbs 11:5).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, one of which reads: "The way to escape the misery of sin is to cease sinning. There is no other way. To the physical senses, the strict demands of Christian Science seem peremptory; but mortals are hastening to learn that Life is God, good, and that evil has in reality neither place nor power in the human or the divine economy" (p. 327).

Lansdowne will be a more difficult morsel for Lower Merion next season. With a great many of this year's team back, Frank Forstburg will have some hefty material to mould into a strong team.

each woman present would spend $20 more than she had planned in her budget, the problem would be solved. Mrs. Marburg presented the motto that every woman should be a publicity agent for her own club.

Luncheon was served by the Hospitality Committee of the Narberth Club of which Mrs. Suzanne Gill is chairman. The afternoon meeting opened with "Duet Barcarolle," rendered by Mrs. Vickers and Mrs. Brown, of the Abington Civic Club, who also played several other selections.

A resolution was passed by the Federation that "we feel through personality, ability, experience and service, Mrs. R. J. Hamilton is the outstanding club woman of Montgomery County and the Southeastern district, also the State. Therefore, be it resolved, that our Secretary be instructed to present to the nominating committee of the State, the name of Mrs. Hamilton as the choice of the Montgomery County Federation for the next President of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women's Clubs."

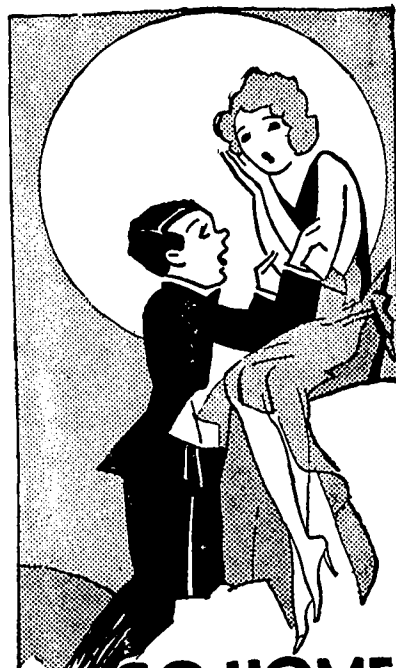

The judges announced that in the flower show for winter gardens, the Pottstown Woman's Club won first prize, with the Whitmarsh Club second. In the best collection contest, the Willow Grove Civic Club won both the first and second prizes.

A talk on "Modern Education Methods" was given by Miss Ruth Wagner, of the South Philadelphia High School for Girls. She told of the great changes in the school environment, methods of study discussion and the Dalton plan which challenges and develops attention. She stressed the great responsibility of mothers. For, when they fail, the heavier burden falls on the teacher. She said that the job of mother and of teacher are the greatest in the world today.

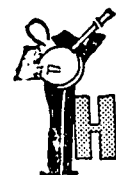

New Play to Open at Hedgerow Next Friday

Next week will mark another Hedgerow opening when Giacosa's play, "Like Falling Leaves" (Come le Feglie) will be given its first performance on Friday evening, November 7. This sensitive drama of the disintegration of a financially ruined family is by a noted Italian playwright chiefly familiar to American opera goers as the librettist of "Tosca," "La Boheme" and "Madame Butterfly." The story concerns a too-honest man of business, Giovanni Rosani; his children, the irresponsible Tommy and the delicately poised Nenele, and his selfish, egocentric wife, Giulia. How these four meet the revelatory test of sudden poverty forms the basis of the play. The characterizations will be in the hands of William Price as the husband and father; Kay Roma and Ned Potter as the children, and Miriam Phillips as the stepmother.

The Black-Morley dramatization of the tragic gropings of youth, "Thunder on the Left," will be the play for next Wednesday night, with Dudley Vaughan, Ferd Nofer and Ned Potter in the leads. Shakespeare's tragedy, "Othello," will be given on Thursday with Wayland Rudd as Othello; Miriam Phillips as Desdemona; Ferd Nofer as Iago. On Saturday, November 8, Sidney Howard's popular play, "Lucky Sam McCarver," returns to the repertory after a brief absence, with Harry Bellaver in the title role of the strangely composite Sam and Dudley Vaughan as his wife.

Junior High 'Leopards' Win Important Game

The Junior High "Leopards" won their most important game of the season last Thursday when they smothered West Chester Junior High under a thirty-eight-to-nothing score. The visiting Chester Countians never had a chance after Captain Harvey Buck went over the goal line on a pretty reverse play early in the first quarter.

The Junior High had the band and the drum and bugle corps out on the field, and a large crowd of cheerers pepped the team along.

"Time Out"

With TOMMY MACKLIN

Captain Johnny Pennypacker's long run of ninety-five yards with an intercepted forward pass hurled from the hand of "Speedy" Rust, of Lansdowne, Saturday afternoon, is just another instance of what a Lower Merion back will do if the offensive starts an aerial attack in an effort to cross the goal line. We cannot produce accurately the number of intercepted passes made by Adam's team in the past three years, but if we could it would astound the readers. The Main Line team has won four games during the past two years in one-touchdown victories in this manner and had two more long runs for touchdowns this season when the score was not necessarily important.

"Tip" Peters ran ninety and ninety-five yards respectively against Abington and Radnor last year for the only scores of the games, each run coming in the last half minute of play. Dave D'Amora won the game at Lansdowne last season by intercepting a forward and racing untouched for thirty-five yards across the goal line. Jim Bradford took one of "Horsey" Horton's laterals two weeks ago at Haverford and took it across the final mark for the winning margin. Up at Cheltenham, Dave Ridge raced sixty yards with an intercepted aerial this year, and last week John Pennypacker carried one of Lansdowne's ninety-five yards in the reverse. Such is the life of wayward forward passes.

Abington has run up the biggest scores this season of any team in the suburbs. They have totaled 156 points and their goal line remains uncrossed.

What They Say

By ROBERT McNALLY

Tommy Macklin is taking TIME OUT for a week.

Bill Roper says night football is not good for the boys. Keeps them up late, won't let them sleep, and "dollarizes" the game.

Heinie Miller says Roper is just another politician, also that night football is just the thing for the boys. Does not keep them up late, puts 'em to sleep early, and permits those who could not otherwise see the game to be on hand.

John McGarry, coach of West Catholic, says that night football is fine. His team is to play three or more night games next season.

West Catholic and Catholic High played a night game at the City Stadium last week. It resulted in a tie, 13 to 13. Over ten thousand paid admissions dropped in to see the game and it was a success from every standpoint. No injuries resulted and all boys were on hand for the Monday practice sessions.

The way the coaches put it is this. Temple is playing good teams now. Villanova is bringing good attractions to Philadelphia. Penn is playing to huge gatherings. Drexel is playing good ball and has a following. What is a high school going to do for money to keep up the athletic programs when everybody is going to see one of these teams play on a Saturday afternoon? Why, play night football, that's all.

Couch Heinie Miller says the best team won. We sorta felt an upset somewhere in that game as early as last Friday, when some smart galook wanted us to back Temple with a few greenbacks.

Bill Roper said the Navy-Princeton game would be close. He didn't say how close.

Tommy Macklin says that Penn will lick Kansas tomorrow. Also that Abington will lose to Lower Merion.

Couch Adam says that his backfield is a bunch of butterfingers. About ten fumbles in the last two games.

This should not be the case with such a fine snapper-back as Lachman Reinhart. He has not made a single bad pass all season.

Captain John Pennypacker, of Lower Merion High, says that Abington has a wonderful team. Their true worth is not yet established though, as they have only played one team with any degree of class. That game was with Upper Darby, and even Upi-Dah hasn't been so hot in the early games.

A local reporter said that Lower Merion was penalized for slugging in the Haverford game. Slugging is a dark sin in football, for which the perpetrator is usually banished from the game. Lower Merion was not penalized for slugging, but for holding, which is only a slight incident in the pastime. The idea is to hold without attracting the officials' attention to it. This little art the Lower Merion line has not yet been able to learn.

Coach Bill Anderson says he won't have a championship basketball team this year. Some of the boys are already practicing in the high school gymnasium daily. We believe Bill will bring Ardmore another wonderful team this year.

The weatherman says clear and cool for tomorrow. Here's hoping.

Face Test Tomorrow

Lower Merion meets Abington tomorrow at Ardmore in a battle for honors in the suburban race. Neither team has been defeated so far this year, each having won five games.

Lower Merion has scored a total of 95 points and has had 6 points registered against it. Abington has garnered 156 points and successfully prevented its goal line from being crossed.

Lower Merion has not been defeated in two seasons.

Villanova Beats Temple by an Exciting Finish

Villanova's football team bested that of Temple University in one of the most exciting games played recently by a Main Line team. Both teams scored a touchdown in the second period, but Villanova failed to convert the extra point. That was the way the game stood through the following quarter, and twelve minutes of the fourth had been played when Villanova desperately started a drive toward the Temple goal line. A fumble gave the ball to Temple and Steve Hanson dropped back to punt out of danger. The pass was a bit high and wide and slid away from Hanson. He quickly scooped up the ball and started for his goal line, but Hickey, giant Villanova right tackle, caught him six inches from the chalk mark. A safety! And an 8-7 victory for Villanova.

Health Object of Friends' Central School Sports

Barclay L. Jones, Ph.D., Headmaster of Friends' Central School, presided at the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club meeting Tuesday, October 21. Douglas W. Crate, head of the Physical Education Department of Friends' Central, spoke at the luncheon, describing the health instruction and the sports activities of a country day school. He outlined the major objectives of the course which is given through the school, which aims to give the students a fundamental idea of the human body and its functions, and to train them to use it to best advantage for health over a long period of years. He also described the sports activities including almost 600 people, and which, in almost every afternoon, finds fifteen groups playing at various sports under skilled leadership.

Clarence E. Tobias, Jr., A.M., Registrar and Head of Science at Friends' Central, has returned from a visit to Phillips Academy at Andover, Mass., where he visited classes in Religion and Modern Life given by Buel Trowbridge.

On Friday, October 24, the members of the Freshman Class at Friends' Central School held their annual Hallowe'en party. The costumes were very varied and splendid. Miss Anne Wachtel was awarded the prize for the prettiest costume, that of a Colonial maid; Warwick Sakami won the prize for the funniest, dressed as a jail bird, and Dorothea Dormon won the prize for the most original costume, clad in "kitchen" armor. There were many games as well as vaudeville performances by the Trotter Brothers, five members of the girls' class and duet singing by others.

Narberth's community weekly news-magazine may be purchased at news-stands in the borough, and $2 will bring it by mail to your home every Friday for a year.

Penn Charter Surprises by Win Over Friends'

The defeat of the strong Friends' Central team by Penn Charter last Friday on the latter's field at Queen Lane by a score of 14-7 came as a big surprise, for the Blue and Gray had been triumphing over all its rivals, the champion Episcopal team included.

Captain "Ace" Hillier, of the Blue and Gold, scored a touchdown in the first period by a series of fine plunges. Neither team scored again until the last period when Hillier, of Penn Charter, knocked a Central forward pass into Sturtevant's arms and then proceeded to take out Funke, the Friends' fullback, so that the Penn Charter runner could score.

Friends' Central followed by scoring on a pass from Funke to Hinkle, but the rally came too late to overtake the opposing team.

Funke, former Abington star, was the star of the Blue and Gray team and distinguished himself by some fine ball-running and punting.

Episcopal Wins

Episcopal Academy remained in the running for the Interac title by defeating Haverford School, 13-6, on Friday at the Episcopal field. Episcopal made both its touchdowns in the second half to overcome Haverford's score, which came in the second period.

This victory and Friends' Central's defeat sends Episcopal, Friends' Central and Penn Charter into a tie for first place in the Interac League.

Montgomery School Victor

Montgomery School defeated Germantown Friends on Friday, 12-0, on the latter's field. Enders, scoring end for the Montgomery team, tallied one touchdown and W. Payne was responsible for the other score.

Haverford High Defeated

Haverford High School went down to defeat before Upper Darby last Saturday afternoon, 6-0. Upper Darby scored in the first period of the game which was fiercely fought and neither team was able to score in the three following periods. Horton, Brunhouse and Buckley played well for Haverford.
